Excise Police Cite Five Establishments

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. – Indiana State Excise Police officers cited five alcoholic beverage establishments, arrested three people, and issued one warning during inspections on Thursday, July 17.

The following alcoholic beverage businesses were issued notices of violation:

Jake's Nightclub, 419 N. Walnut Street, was cited for one count each of an employee working without an alcoholic beverage permit and not having records of permits. Officers were at Jake's to check a complaint about underage drinking. Jake's has been cited two other times in 2008: on April 28 for fire code violations and June 18 for falsifying records and three related permit violations.

Buffalo Wild Wings, 1350 W. Bloomfield Road, was cited for multiple counts of employees working without alcoholic beverage permits, not having records of permits, and a manager working without having completed a manager's questionnaire.

Deangelo's Pizzeria, 2620 E. Third Street, was cited for one count each of an employee working without an alcoholic beverage permit, not having records of permits, and a manager working without having completed a manager's questionnaire.

Cheeseburger in Paradise, 2550 E. Third Street, was cited for two counts of employees working without alcoholic beverage permits.

Red Lobster, 2617 E. Third Street, was cited for one count each of an employee working without an alcoholic beverage permit and not having records of permits.

Excise officers issued a warning to Classic Lanes, 1421 Willis Drive, for two counts of furnishing or providing an alcoholic beverage to a minor. Inside, officers found two minors in possession of beer. An adult was arrested for furnishing or providing alcoholic beverages to these minors.

Indiana State Excise Police officers are the enforcement division of the Indiana Alcohol & Tobacco Commission. While excise officers have the authority to enforce any state law, they focus primarily on enforcing Indiana's alcohol and tobacco statutes.
